

ACADEMY OF SAINT JOSEPH IN THE PINES BRENTWOOD, N.Y.

Boarding School for Young Ladies and Little Girls

BRENTWOOD, known as the Capital of the Pine Region, is delightfully situated in the centre of Long Island. Pine Park, its garden spot, now named Saint Joseph's-in-the-Pines, contains in its stretch of more than three hundred acres: Woodlands, groves, orchards, vineyards, farms, lawns, and drive-ways, presenting landscapes on every side, restful, attractive, beautiful, picturesque.

Saint Joseph's Hall, the magnificent fireproof main building, comprises in its exquisite appointments: Parlors, classrooms, study halls, vocal and instrumental studios, libraries, laboratories, private rooms, dormitories and roof gardens.

Brentwood may be reached in less than one hour and a half, by subway, from Pennsylvania Station, Seventh Avenue and Thirty-third Street, New York. Trains leave also from Flatbush Avenue Station, Brooklyn, and Jamaica, Long Island.

The Brentwood Station is within ten minutes' walk of the academy.

Besides the acknowledged healthfulness of Suffolk County, in which the admirers of Brentwood enthusiastically exult; they expatiate even more emphatically on the beneficial influences of its far-extending groves of Pines.

St. Joseph's Day College for Women, 286-294 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

ON FEBRUARY 24TH, 1916, a College Charter was granted by the Board of Regents of the State University, New York, for the opening of Saint Joseph's Day College for Women, Monday, October 2nd. For the present, the reception of students will be limited to the freshmen collegiate grade.

It is hoped that many of this year's academic graduates of Saint Angela's Hall, and of other high schools in the city, will be among the students that will form the nucleus of the new college. Representatives of the Brentwood class of 1916 are also expected to enter upon the advanced course, which their Alma Mater is about to establish, in the Borough of Brooklyn.
